Judges Comments:

Jeff Attwood addressed the audience to speak on this class and he stated he thought all the clearwing breeders must have been very relieved that they brought in a specialist Clearwing judge from England to judge this class this morning. In all the years I have been judging birds Nearly forty years now, this is the first time I have had the delight to judge real clearwings. (This was said very tongue in cheek as the English have ruined this variety by adding all different varieties into them and ruining the clear wing completely).

I congratulate everyone on this class as we do not have clearwings like these in the U.K.

JUDGES COMMENTS

First is a Yellow wing Light green hen. She has beautiful contrast and an excellent clear wing. Perfect condition and a lovely quality hen. I congratulate the owner of the bird for that. If you want to be very critical she is slightly dark in the tail but still a clear winner. .

Second is a Yellow wing Dark Green of superb contrast which we were very impressed with the clear yellow wing contrasting with the darker green body colour. Again superbly conditioned and presented. Her head quality is slightly lacking when compared with the winner. .

Third is a Yellow wing Light Green cock. The only bird showing buff feathering and in a variety such as this buff feathering is slightly detrimental to the contrast between wing and body colours. Slightly soft in feather but the only bird that showed good size due to the buff feathering

JUDGES COMMENTS

Second is a beautiful Fallow hen. Wonderful frontal, lovely profile, super shoulder, lovely contrast of colour but unfortunately let down by a sore rub mark just above the cere.

JUDGES COMMENTS

Third bird is a nice dark green with a very deep mask, good in the head and solid through the shoulder, good contrast in colour but let down by a spot missing and a broken tail.

A fantastic top row of birds. We had to call the other two judges over to discuss the degree of flecking and we all came to the same conclusion that even deducting points for the flecking this birds is a clear winner. Far too strong for the second and third birds. First is a super sky blue cock.

Struggled in this class as there wasn't a clear winner.
First is a Yellowface with good size and a steady bird.
Nice head width
