This has been the most difficult class so far as the first eight birds are very close. First bird I thought was one of Warren Wilsons race horses the way it ran up and down the cage floor but we did get it on to the perch and it showed us what we wanted to see. It has very good head qualities to make it the winner.

The second placegetter probably won't have a tail in a few minutes time as it is just hanging in there. The bird has a lovely colour for a Black Eye and is probably one of the better coloured birds in the whole class. Good feather on the top but nowhere near the strength of the bird that won the class

JUDGES COMMENTS

Janice spoke on this class: I was very pleased to be judging this variety out here and even more pleased to find the quality of the Clearwings regarding clarity of wings much improved since my last visit to the National in 2002. It is extremely difficult to put good head quality on this variety.

First place is a long, beautifully marked violet cock. He stood well throughout judging. He had really good clarity of wings – a beautiful bird that was a pleasure to judge.

JUDGES COMMENTS

(Again Janice spoke on this class – just for explanation, Fallows are not very common in England). What a privilege to judge a class of birds, the size and quality of which we cannot approach in the United Kingdom. This was a strong class and the highest placed eight birds out of the fourteen would beat any we have in the UK!

First is a super bird and a clear winner that gave us a marker for the rest of the class. It was the best Fallow I have ever judged in my life!

JUDGES COMMENTS

Third is a nice powerful bird and would have good spots if he had more than the one that was there. He has a little blood on the wing but not enough that would classify as an injury. Again a very nice bird. Fourth is a long bird with good directional feather with a little ticking and good spots as well, just a fraction below third.

JUDGES COMMENTS

This class caused more dilemma than any class judged over the last two days. There was no real bird that jumped out or stood out that would have made the decision easy for us. The first three birds all had different types of penalties which caused a dilemma to our judging.

The hen in first place, although she had substantial penalties with a few flights being chewed off and short in tail, she was still the superior bird through the shoulder with good mask and spots and a super bird overall.

JUDGED BY: Derek Poole and Peter Glassenbury.

Hens Class

2ND HEN 2008

WINNER
IAN HANINGTON

JUDGES COMMENTS

Second was a spangle hen displaying good size spots with one missing which caused a little dilemma and a messy tail structure and tends to be a little heavy in the wings but is well marked but not a very good outline bird.

JUDGED BY: Derek Poole and Peter Glassenbury.

Hens Class

3RD HEN 2008

WINNER
GARY GAZZARD NSW

JUDGES COMMENTS

Third is in good condition but heavily flecked and not a good representation of the variety. I am not trying to be negative I am just trying to show how hard it was to come to the decisions we did. Some people out there may say we have it wrong but the decision has been made.
