JUDGES COMMENTS:

When we first looked at the class we thought it would be easy to pick the winners but upon closer examination we found lots of faults.

First Bird in cage G is a big strong powerful bird. Has good width but not in the best condition.

JUDGES COMMENTS

It was a hard class to judge as the majority of the birds are magnificent and a credit to the breeders. There are some lovely power birds with not much separating them.

There were not many reasons for separating them.

First bird in cage G is a magnificent hen who does tend to put her tail over the perch but a great power bird with a wonderful top end and good face, mask and spots.

JUDGED BY: Alan Rowe & Jean Painter

JUDGES COMMENTS

There were no standout birds in this class which made it a little difficult. Condition played a big part in the placings.

First bird in cage D has lovely width and feather direction. Had a debate on the ticking which is a worry but even penalising it for that fault, it is still a worthy winner.

We really worked this class and did more than the normal changing of birds to get the placement we finished with. A lovely class of birds and exhibitors should be proud of their achievements. There are birds with really nice colour and quite powerful.

First bird in cage A has all the modern features we all need to see on our birds. Overall the best shaped bird here. It has lovely colour and condition and quite powerful.

JUDGES COMMENTS

Ghalib Al-Nasser spoke on this class and stated that having come from the Northern Hemisphere where they don't have the clarity of wings it was a pleasure to judge. The birds benched today have beautiful contrast especially on the dark factor birds.

First place in cage F is a lovely bird with good clearwing clarity. Good width of head and good condition on the day.

JUDGES COMMENTS

This was a very nice class of Fallows. I don't think they are as nice as Ian Hanington's Fallow class winner in 1994 but still a nice class.

The Blue Series birds in general were patchy in the body colour and penalized accordingly.

First place in cage F has good size, lovely condition, showed itself well. Has good width of head and good shape.

Third in cage P is a lovely length of bird, good spots but does not relax well to show its true potential.

Another very good competitive class here with some great powerful budgerigars. We were surprised at the quality of the Spangle markings on the larger birds.

First place in cage S has a wonderful face, flair, feather, feather and more feather. Nice wing markings.

JUDGES COMMENTS

What a great class to judge. So many good quality attractive budgerigars to look at and debate over.

The first three birds are very powerful birds with strong shoulders, great width and deep masks.

First in cage S has a wonderful face and feather, lacking spot size but width of face won it for him on the day.

JUDGES COMMENTS

At first we thought it would be an easy class to judge as there are some nice birds here but we discovered a lot of feather problems. First place in cage P is a big powerful bird with good deportment, good width of face and shoulder. The only problem is he has head markings but he is too strong to put down further.

This was a pleasure to judge. Wish I could take some of the birds home with me. They are a credit to the breeders. First in cage F is a powerful bird in its own right let alone in the Crest variety. It is a long bird with a very neat circular crest.

Again a good overall class of hens with power behind many of them. First in cage J is a complete bird except for only having one tail feather. She has beautiful deportment, is a clean Opaline and very stylish. She has good width of head and blow.
